Subject: Chinese Product Safety

The last few months has brought numerous issues concerning the safety of products made in China ranging from pet food to tires to toys. Food safety, as well as general product safety as it relates to human handling or use of these products, has been called into question. Some consumers are understandably concerned about products in China I want to address that issue now.

All Signature Housewares products meet FDA and California Proposition 65 standards as they relate to food safety. Our products are independently tested for both standards since 1995 and are completely safe for any type of food usage.

All categories of our product line meet these standards, including pet bowls, so you can confidently use and sell our products knowing that they are stringently tested to comply with FDA and Proposition 65 standards.

We may hear further alarming reports in the future about Chinese produced product safety and this topic will continue to concern consumers. Rest assured that our entire product line poses no threat of lead, or any other type of, contamination and can be used with confidence.
